Not the Worst of This Sad Tale. Octopus Steals Engine Room, and Crew Gives Up to Coming Doom. But Tabby Loco Saves the Day in Brand-new Nature-Faking Way.

Only the cat seemed out of place in the old tobacco shop in Lower Pennsylvania avenue. The proprietor was bent and old, but his eye still twinkled and his voice yet had the ring of a man w! has fought his way about the world.

Noticing the stranger's look at the animal that lay in the back part of the shop, with one eye half closed, the old shopkeeper turned a reminiscent eye back that way and nodded.

"Loco, I calls him." he said, "that bein' short for locomotive, 'im bein' a powerful

"He's the only cat now in existence wot 'as the proud record of saving a ship from pirates all by himself," he con-

Loco stirred slightly, as if he heard this comment, rose half way from the floor, stretched his long legs so that the muscles-such muscles as never were seen on a cat before-came out slowly, and then once more subsided into a semi-sleep. "It must have been thirty year ago,

"We had been out two months, with never a sign of a pirate, w'en one mornin', bright and early, the cap'n sights a lowlyin' bark with a steam rig-out two points off the starboard bow.

All Hearts Not Black,

Well, to shorten sail a bit, the schoon er proved to be the Gay Paree, manned by that black-hearted pirate, Johnny Jimson, and 200 other pirates, whose 'earts were just a little less black, 'cause they hadn't been in the business so long.

"The cap'n, bein' a young man and hot on the chase, soon got near enough to send a shot from one of our guns acrost the pirate's bow. Nary a heave-to for Johnny Jimson. Instead, he sent one back wot knocks off a bit of our bowsprit into the sea.

Well, the cap'n was givin' the order to fire once more, when a big whale stuck Munchausen and gobbled down that gun, with its whole bloomin' crew. We afterward found out that he was a pet whale that had been adopted by Jimson when quite young and trained to eat cannon. 'Put on full steam ahead and ram

Loco Goes Into Action.

"Well, I 'ad seen that animal bump into an elefunt onct and knock 'im over w'en he spied a nice-lookin' fly on top of 'is back, but I never really seen 'im in action till that day.

The first time he jumped clean from like a balloon. That stroke carried us do not 1,000 feet, by eye measurement.

'After that it was easy. We all just sat down on the deck and watched Loco try all right, but the grease kept 'im from gettin' a foothold, and he slipped back, to try again.

"The Gay Paree was 'most on us w'en we started Loco workin', but in five minin the rear.

"I suppose we'd been goln' yet, or wrecked some'ers, if an accident hadn't happened. You see, we was pointed due east w'en Loco started in, and in about twelve hours we was in sight of the west coast of Africa, w'en Loco happened to think out a new way.
